

AUTOMATIC REQUEST FORWARDING METHOD AND SYSTEMABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- 5           The present invention comprises a method for automatically forwarding a request. The method comprises receiving a request from a client enabled to communicate using an Internet communications protocol. The request comprises at least a first portion. The method also comprises transforming the request if the request is associated with a desired URL address that comprises the at least a first
- 10           portion and another portion. The method also comprises automatically forwarding the request to the desired URL address.